

Diagnosing a Society

One late night, comedian Chelsea Handler stood before a large audience, cracking jokes and earning loud bouts of laughter from the spectators. Towards the end of her show, she began talking about children. "I could have been a mother too okay- three times," she said. "But I made the right decisions,"(Walsh 13:22). The audience laughed uproariously, like the joke and the hidden meaning behind it was the funniest thing they've ever heard. The problem here is not the joke about abortion, however obscene it is. The real problem is the laughter. How depraved is our society, that we find jokes about killing babies hilarious? This is no longer an issue of a single person or group. This is an alarming sign of the moral depravity of our entire country.

No longer is abortion the question of when a heartbeat begins, or when a baby begins to feel pain. Now, the questions our society screams are 'what about me? What about my rights and my body?' The rules of America today ban all scientific fact and allow only for abstract thought. Few people care about the basic biology of life, about scientific rules or facts. It's all about feelings, rights, and 'attacks' on women's bodies. . America is screaming it's none of your business what happens to a baby, it doesn't affect you. But the scary fact of it is if other people's babies can be murdered and it is titled 'medical care'- then that is everyone's business.

If people would just open their eyes and look, they would see our children are under attack. It's obvious the only way to obtain control in any situation is first controlling the rising generation. The government can obtain power through your teens, your children, and your babies. The majority of teenagers at any public school or university have been programmed into believing in only women's reproductive rights and women's healthcare. Associating murder and abortion are blasphemous to their beliefs. This is deliberate, and this is working. Our society is crumbling, our morals and ethics on basic values have been washed down the drain. Welcome to America, where the jokes a comedian cracks about murder are hilarious and healthcare includes killing a baby. This is what our country has come to. And this is just the start.

I'm pro-life because I'm not brainless. I choose science, not abstract feelings. I know the truth, and I'm going to stand up for it. I'm tired of seeing kids my age completely oblivious to the fact that babies alive with beating hearts are being killed. I'm tired of being in a country where abortion is legal. Abortion is just one devastating puzzle piece that makes up our sick society, and it's time for all of us to put our feet down and do something. We will not let our children be brainwashed. We will not let abortion be seen as help. And we will not let our society take us down with it.
