

I am pro-life because I was given the chance to live when I was unplanned. When my mom was in college, she was not saved and made unwise choices. She ended up getting pregnant with me. My biological father wanted me aborted saying I was a mistake, and I would ruin his life. Once my mom found out that she was pregnant, she began to reevaluate her life choices. She sought God's forgiveness and gave her heart to Christ. This helped her see her mistakes through a new lens. When she came to the realization that life began at conception, she then saw me as a gift from God and not a burden.

A year after I was born, my mom got married to a wonderful Godly man who chose to adopt me at one year of age, and I am now part of a growing family with a mom, dad, two siblings and one on the way. I'm a daughter, a sister, a granddaughter, a cousin, a friend, and a Christian girl who loves God. If I was aborted and never given the chance to live, like my biological father had wanted, I would be none of these things. My mom most likely would have never met my dad, and she perhaps would not be alive today. I may have not been planned by this world, but I was planned by God with a purpose. I believe every child unplanned or planned has a purpose by God.

Life is a beautiful thing, and it breaks my heart that so many babies just like me are murdered without mercy. I wish that I could tell every girl and mother my story, and how abortion breaks the heart of God. The sad truth is that in the U.S. alone 63,000,000 babies have been aborted since Roe v. Wade was legalized. [1] What would the United States look like today if those babies had not been aborted? My hope is that society will stop putting animals and careers and college and selfish wishes above a baby, not just an embryo, but an actual human being that can't speak for themselves. I wish abortion wasn't a thing, but you can't erase history, and you cannot fight evil with evil; I hope that at least my voice speaking up for these tiny beings will make an impact.

I believe that if old and young women across the world would start to stand up, reach out, and tell their stories we could change not only the minds of this present generation but also future generations, on the topic of abortion. I won't stop sharing my story and the realities of abortion no matter the consequences because lives are at risk. This is why I am pro-Life. Everyone should be given the chance to be loved, to love, and have a childhood.
